

TRANSFER ACCUSED PUPIL

Washington Leader Angered by Action of Education Board.

Alfred J. Eno, Queens suffragist, indignant to learn that Miss Julia Strauss, the Jamaica High School pupil who attempted suicide because she said she was unfairly accused of theft, is now enrolled in the Richmond Hill High School.

"I deplore this transfer," says Mrs. Eno. "It creates the impression that Miss Strauss is guilty. I cannot understand why the Board of Education held no formal hearing in this case. If this girl is not guilty she should be sent back to the Jamaica High School."

STRAUSS MURDER
IN 1914 SOLVED;
TWELVE INDICTED

Police Clear Up Old Mystery of Killing of Deputy Court Clerk.

SLAIN IN GANG FIGHT.

Four of Accused Members of Sirocco and "Dopey Bennie"
Crowds in Custody.

Indictments charging about a dozen persons with murder in the first degree were returned by the Grand Jury this afternoon as the result of almost two years and a half of police investigation into the murder of Frederick Strauss, an aged deputy clerk of the City Court, who was shot down at No. 23 St. Mark's Place in front of Arlington Hall as he was on his way to a lodge meeting on the night of Jan. 9, 1914.

Capt. Arthur Carey of the Homicide Bureau and Detective Sergeant Williams of his staff have cleared up the mystery, and all the details of the crime are in the hands of District Attorney Swann.

Four of the men indicted to-day are already in custody, three serving prison terms and the other awaiting trial. They are Irving Wexler, alias "Waxy Gordon," who is in Sing Sing prison serving two and a half years for raiding and robbing an east side stupa game; Joe Brown, alias "Brownie," serving five years in the Federal prison at Atlanta, for selling cocaine; Abe Beckerman, alias "Little Abe," who is under sentence of from one year to life in the Illinois State prison at Joliet for robbing a bank; and Joe Miller, alias "Jew Murphy," who is in the Tombs under two charges of assault.

Bench warrants have been issued for the other men accused, all of whom have been under surveillance for the last three weeks while the Grand Jury has been investigating the case. The arrests will round up about all that remains of the "Chick" Tricca and "Dopey Bennie" Fein gangs, for it was in a pistol battle between members of these gangs that Strauss, an innocent bystander, was shot.

The evidence gathered by Capt. Carey and Sgt. Williams has been corroborated in confessions made to District Attorney Swann and Assistant District Attorney John Joyce. It corroborates long standing police suspicion which, until recently, could not be strengthened to the extent of warranting the institution of proceedings before the Grand Jury.

Mr. Strauss was the victim of east side gang rivalry. The Tricca gang and the "Dopey Bennie" gang were composed of gunmen prepared to do any kind of a job for pay. One of their favorite activities was to aid in breaking strikes or promoting strikes. There was a strike in the cloak and suit trade in the fall of 1913 and several members of the "Dopey Bennie" gang were engaged as guards for a factory at No. 168 Greene Street.

In a fight between these men and members of the Tricca gang on Nov. 12, Max Greenwald, a popular member of the "Dopey Bennie" organization was killed. In accordance with the ethics of gangs that prevailed at that time it was up to the "Dopey Bennie" crowd to slay some member of the Tricca crowd in retaliation.

A crowd of "Dopey Bennie" followers attacked several members of the Tricca gang during the bicycle races at Madison Square Garden in December, 1913, but were unable to accomplish the murder they deemed themselves obligated to perform. There was a cessation of active hostilities until the night of Jan. 9, when Harry Lenny and Tommy Dike, members of the Tricca gang, gave a ball at Arlington Hall.

MARIAN LAMBERT'S
GIRL CHUM APPEARS
AFTER LONG ABSENCE

Return of Josephine Davis
Taken to Indicate Orpet Trial
Will Soon Be in Full Swing.

WAUKEGAN, Ill., May 31.—Josephine Davis, chum of Marian Lambert and principal witness for the State against Will Orpet, returned to Lake Forest to-day after a mysterious absence of several weeks. Her return was believed to indicate State's Attorney Daddy's confidence that a jury to try Orpet would be completed this afternoon and the trial under way by to-morrow.

Judge Charles H. Donnelly expressed hope of securing the final four permanent jurors speedily.

Counsel for Orpet to-day made an official denial of reports that Cyrus H. McCormick, multi-millionaire harvester manufacturer, is furnishing the funds for Orpet's defense. The defendant's father is horticulturist on the McCormick estate.

BUCKING STREET CAR
BRUISES PASSENGERS

Jammed Trolley Slot Causes Painful Demonstration of Law of Inertia.

A tightly wedged obstruction in the trolley slot suddenly stopped a south-bound open car at Lexington Avenue and One Hundredth Street this afternoon. Although the car stopped, the passengers and the conductor and motorman continued to progress on their south-bound way.

The motorman was halted by the dashboard of the front platform; the conductor was thrown from the running board and the passengers were slammed against the backs of the seats in front of them. Clara Livingston of No. 45 West One Hundred and Forty-second Street and Cynthia Ritter of No. 3 West One Hundred and Fourteenth Street were sent to Harlem Hospital for treatment. Bertha Goldberg of No. 130 West One Hundred and Sixteenth Street was treated by an ambulance surgeon and sent home. The electrical equipment of the car was wrecked and traffic on the line was disorganized for half an hour.

CHAIN CUT OFF FINGERS.

Driver Meets Odd Accident When Truck Gets Stuck.

Frederick Behman, forty-six a driver of No. 946 Grand Street, Williamsburg, lost four fingers in an odd accident to-day. The wheels of his wagon got stuck in the car tracks at Grand Street and Morgan Avenue, and Charles Krimle, another driver, offered to help pull him out.

Krimle backed his truck up to the pole of Behman's and handed Behman a chain to attach. While Behman had the chain wound around his left hand, Krimle's horses started and the chain snapped. Behman's fingers as clean; as a surgeon could have done it. He was taken to St. Catherine's Hospital.

SIX IN AUTO SMASHUP.

One Victim Dies After Collision With Trolley Car.

NEW LONDON, Conn., May 31.—Henry Silverman of Williamamtic, is dead, Miss Grace Shea and Daniel Leavin, both of Norwich, are probably fatally hurt, and three others, a young woman and two men, are suffering from less serious injuries, as a result of a head-on collision here last night between a trolley car and an automobile. Silverman's skull was fractured and he died early to-day at the hospital. The automobile, it said, was on the wrong side of the road.

Silverman was to have been tried at Williamamtic to-day on a charge of arson, growing out of the burning of his mother's clothing store there last March.

A Different
Lemonade

How foolish it is to add claret to lemonade when claret, like the lemon, is acid. Virginia Dare Wine has the sweetness and the rare flavor of the most luscious grapes grown. It contrasts so delightfully with the lemon that you cannot imagine anything so good as lemonade—

CROWD SEES GIRL OF 8
KNOCKED UNDER CAR

Child Crawls Out Uninjured and Helps Quiet Horror Stricken Mother.

Scores of persons on Sixth Avenue near Fortieth Street were horrified to-day when Helen Powell, eight years old, returning from Bryant Park to the Hermitage Hotel with her mother, was knocked down by the fender of a southbound surface car and rolled under the front platform. Mrs. Powell's screams were heard two blocks away. Calls for an ambulance were sent from several different telephones and volunteers gathered to aid in jacking up the car. The little girl climbed out dusty and pale, but quite un-harmful. Her principal concern was to quiet her mother.
